Nigerians want to afford three meals per day

Since the removal of fuel subsidies by the current administration, Nigerians have been grappling with an unprecedented rise in the cost of goods and services. The soaring prices have placed immense pressure on ordinary citizens, particularly the lower and middle classes, who now struggle to afford basic necessities.

Prior to this shift, the cost of Premium Motor Spirit (PMS) was below N300 per litre. Today, fuel and diesel prices have skyrocketed, ranging between N970 and N1,400 per litre. This surge has triggered ripple effects across all sectors, making staple food items increasingly unaffordable.

While the ruling elite remains largely insulated from this crisis—benefiting from state-funded provisions and shopping abroad—ordinary Nigerians are bearing the brunt. Many political leaders conduct transactions in foreign currencies, further devaluing the naira and exacerbating economic hardship. It is imperative to address these systemic issues and recalibrate economic policies to prioritise national development and public welfare.

Despite the recent restart of the Port Harcourt and Warri refineries, fuel prices remain excessively high. If these facilities are truly operational, why has the pump price not decreased? Is Nigeria short on crude oil, or are vested interests determined to keep the masses in economic suffocation?

In developed nations, while luxury items may be expensive, staple foods remain affordable. In contrast, in Nigeria, essential commodities have seen drastic price hikes. A custard-paint bucket of rice now costs between N8,000 and N10,000, up from N3,500. A similar increase has been observed in garri prices, while transport fares have risen sharply. The continuous depreciation of the naira has further worsened purchasing power.

Nigeria is not inherently poor; mismanagement and policy failures have led to widespread economic distress. The nation must reject the illusion of “technology transfer” and instead focus on developing local technological and industrial capabilities. The government must also harness the potential of informal refining activities, colloquially known as ‘kpo fire’, by formalising and regulating them for legal production.

Economic stability is not rocket science—it requires competent leadership and the right policies. The success of Abia State under Governor Alex Otti exemplifies what can be achieved when governance is approached with sincerity and efficiency. If states can efficiently utilise resources for development, why should the federal government fail?

Meanwhile, the approved N70,000 minimum wage remains grossly inadequate. It cannot even purchase a single bag of rice, highlighting the urgent need for policies to address hyperinflation. The Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) and the Ministry of Finance must take decisive steps to stabilise the economy.

The naira must regain its value against the dollar, ideally appreciating to N300–N400 per dollar rather than its current dismal rate of N1,700. If smaller African nations can stabilise their economies, Nigeria must strive to do the same. One possible solution is the controlled release of grains from national reserves to ease food shortages.

Additionally, the National Youth Service Corps (NYSC) could be leveraged for large-scale mechanised farming. If structured effectively, this initiative could enhance food security and reduce reliance on expensive imports.

At the core of these discussions is a simple truth: Nigerians want to afford three meals a day, not hear about trillions of naira in annual budgets that fail to translate into tangible relief. The time for decisive action is now—before the nation’s economic crisis spirals further out of control. A stitch in time, as the saying goes, saves nine.

Osun 2026: We must avoid mistakes of 2022 by fielding credible candidate — APC Chieftain

By Jeleel Olawale, Ile-Ife

Achieftain of the All Progressives Congress, Honourable Bukola Ojuade has urged the leadership of the All Progressives Congress (APC) to field a credible candidate ahead of the 2026 governorship election in Osun State to avoid the mistakes of 2022.

In an interview with NewsDirect, Ojuade said that for APC to go into 2026 governorship poll, there is need for the party to present a credible and formidable candidate to slug it out with the incumbent governor who is seeking a second term in office.

He said, a credible primary election would produce a sellable candidate to the electorate, adding that the party is going into the poll as opposition, and there is need to get it right and put its house in order and go to the poll as indivisible family devoid of acrimony and wrangling.

Ojuade described credible primary elections as panacea to acceptable candidates.

He stressed that APC needs to get it right before going to election, emphasizing that the party cannot afford to go to poll with a divided house. He added that the chance of APC is bright if the party can mend fences against the party.

The former Abuja councilor noted that Governor Ademola Adeleke can be dislodged if the party prepared well. He stressed that the governor's performance is not enough to guarantee him victory in the 2026 governorship election.

"APC does not depend on using federal power to secure victory in the 2026 poll because you cannot win an election where you are not popular. Election depends on grassroot appeal and popularity among the electorate.

Benue Assembly acted within confines of law — Majority Leader tells NBA

By Titus Atundu, Makurdi

The Majority Leader of the Benue State House of Assembly, Comrade Saater Tiseer, has insisted that the Assembly acted within the law and in the best interests of the state, which he described as the Assembly's primary responsibility.

Tiseer also criticised the Nigerian Bar Association (NBA) for its hasty condemnation of the Assembly's recommendation for the removal of Benue State's Chief Judge, Maurice Ikpambese.

Speaking at a press conference on Thursday in Makurdi, in response to the NBA's position, Tiseer accused the NBA of rushing to judgment without fully understanding the facts of the matter.

He claimed that the NBA's President, Afam Osigwe SAN, and General Secretary, Dr. Mobolaji Ojibara, relied on incomplete information from social media reports instead of consulting with the Assembly or reviewing its resolution. He argued that the NBA's position was based on a poorly researched and erroneous interpretation of the situation.

Tiseer emphasised that the Assembly's recommendation for the removal of the Chief Judge was in accordance with Section 292(1)(a)(ii) of the 1999 Constitution, which gives the Governor the power to remove the Chief Judge under specific conditions. He clarified that the Assembly's action was based on a petition sent to the House by the Governor.

The Majority Leader further explained that the Assembly did not recommend the removal of Justice Ikpambese as a judicial officer but rather as the Chief Judge of Benue State, a political office. He argued that the position of Chief Judge is a political appointment, which formed the basis for the Assembly's recommendation. He also noted that Justice Ikpambese would remain a High Court judge in the state.

Tiseer also revealed that the Assembly had referred the petition against Justice Ikpambese to the National Judicial Council (NJC) for

Despite illegal self-help by APC Chairmen, we will uphold rule of law, hold election — Adeleke assures

By Jeleel Olawale

Governor Ademola Adeleke of Osun State has urged politicians to adhere to the rule of law while encouraging voters to peacefully exercise their rights in the upcoming local government elections on Saturday.

In a state broadcast yesterday, Governor Adeleke reassured the people of Osun that peace had returned following the recent unrest triggered by the unlawful takeover of local government secretariats by the court-sacked All Progressives Congress (APC) chairmen and councillors. He declared, "Osun State has regained its status as one of the most peaceful states in the federation."

Expressing condolences to the families and friends of those who lost their lives or sustained injuries during the illegal occupation of the secretariats, Adeleke stressed the importance of respecting the rule of law as the foundation for lasting peace in the state.

"I particularly appreciate and commend our people for complying with my directives to stay away from local government secretariats. Their cooperation has prevented further confrontations and casualties, ensuring that our state remains a haven of peace and unity.

"I regret to inform the good people of Osun State that the court-sacked APC chairmen and councillors once again forcefully entered various local government secretariats on Wednesday, 19th February 2025.

"I urge and direct everyone in Osun State to refrain from engaging with them at the local government secretariats. The judiciary remains the ultimate arbiter in this matter, and we must be patient while the courts resolve it peacefully.

"Those who claim to have a court judgment reinstating them should follow the due legal process for enforcement rather than resorting to self-help, which is illegal.

"The Nigerian judiciary has clear enforcement procedures that must be followed by all. If you have a legitimate court

...Without you, I wouldn't be a politician — Tinubu tells Babangida

...Blames Sani Abacha for annulment

By Sodiq Adelakun

Former Nigerian military president, Ibrahim Babangida, has expressed regret over the annulment of the June 12, 1993 presidential election, a decision that has haunted the country for over three decades.

In his newly released autobiography "A Journey in Service," Babangida admitted that the election, widely regarded as free and fair, was won by businessman and politician Moshood Kashimawo Olawale (MKO) Abiola.

The event, held in Abuja on Thursday, marked the unveiling of IBB's autobiography, A Journey in Service.

Babangida, who annulled the election during his tenure, took full responsibility for the controversial decision, marking a moment of reflection and reconciliation 32 years after the historic event.

Babangida claimed the decision to cancel the election widely believed to have been won by MKO Abiola was made without his authorisation by top military officials, led by Sani Abacha.

Babangida recounted that he was in Katsina when the announcement was made by the press secretary of his deputy.

He said he was stunned to learn that the election had been annulled, as he had not given any directive for such an action.

He later discovered that Abacha, his chief of defense staff, had taken matters into his own hands, leveraging internal divisions within the military to push through the annulment.

He describes how, days before the election, a legal challenge emerged when the Association for a Better Nigeria (ABN) secured an injunction to halt the process.

Despite conflicting opinions among his advisers, Babangida ultimately decided to allow the election to proceed.

However, on June 16, the chairman of the electoral commission was abruptly ordered to stop announcing the results. Babangida now suggests that this move was orchestrated by powerful figures within his government who were determined to undermine the democratic transition.

By June 23, while attending a funeral in Katsina, he says he learned that the election had been formally annulled through an impromptu statement that lacked official documentation, recalling feeling trapped, and recognising that forces beyond his control had taken over.

With the military deeply divided and Abacha growing more powerful, Babangida resigned in August 1993, handing power to an interim government, which Abacha later removed.

Industrialisation: FG inaugurates working group for economic transformation

The Federal Government has officially launched the Industrial Revolution Work Group (IRWG) as part of efforts to drive Nigeria's industrial revitalisation and broader economic transformation.

The Minister of State for Industry, Trade and Investment, Senator John Enoh, inaugurated the group on Thursday in Abuja.

Enoh explained that the initiative aims to reposition Nigeria's industrial sector by fostering innovation, enhancing production capabilities, and strengthening its global competitiveness.

He stated that the IRWG would play a central role in transforming Nigeria from a consumer-driven economy into an industrial powerhouse.

"This initiative is not just another policy framework, but a transformative movement designed to industrialise, innovate, and elevate Nigeria," he said.

Enoh underscored the importance of a structured and results-focused approach to industrialisation, outlining that the vision of the IRWG would be realised through four key pillars of transformation.

"These pillars include revitalising dormant industries, expanding export markets, improving infrastructure and energy solutions, and harnessing technology to develop a skilled workforce," he explained.

"The path ahead will undoubtedly present challenges, but history will not measure us by the scale of the obstacles; instead, it will judge us by our determination to overcome them.

"Nigeria must move beyond being a mere consumer economy. We must produce, we must innovate, and we must lead.

"I invite every stakeholder—government bodies, private sector pioneers, global investors, and forward-thinking entrepreneurs—to recognise this endeavour as a national imperative," Enoh urged.

In his remarks, the Permanent Secretary in the ministry, Ambassador Nura Rimi, described the initiative as a critical component of President Bola Tinubu's transformation agenda.

"Your appointment as members of this working group is a call to action. Nigeria's economic future depends on our ability to produce, innovate, and compete on the global stage," Rimi said.

He added that a thriving industrial sector would strengthen the Naira, create jobs, and improve the overall quality of life for Nigerians.

Similarly, Temitola Adekunle-Johnson, Senior Special Assistant (SSA) to the President on Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), expressed confidence in the IRWG's ability to deliver tangible results.

"This is not the first time Nigeria has set up an industrial working group, but I am confident in the capacity of this team to make a meaningful difference," he said.

Also, the Special Adviser to the President on Industry, Trade, and Investment, Mr. John Uwajumogu, emphasised the importance of building a strong industrial base as a driver of transformative economic growth.

"We often speak of our population as an advantage, but if we do not grow our economy at a pace that supports our people, it becomes a challenge. Industrialisation is the solution," he said.

He urged the working group to focus on locally driven solutions, drawing insights from the industrial success stories of Asian economies.

Meanwhile, Dr. Reuben Bamidele, National Programme Officer of the United Nations Industrial Development Organisation (UNIDO), commended the initiative, highlighting that Nigeria must learn from the world's leading manufacturing countries.

"The top 10 manufacturing nations globally account for 71 per cent of total manufacturing output, with China at the forefront.

"Nigeria must position itself to fully leverage its comparative and competitive advantages," he said.

Bamidele reiterated UNIDO's commitment to

FG urges China to remove trade tariff for Nigeria

The Nigerian government has urged its Chinese counterpart to remove trade tariffs for Nigeria. China only recently announced the removal of trade tariffs for 33 African countries.

The Minister of State, Foreign Affairs, Amb. Bianca Odumegwu-Ojukwu, according to a statement by her media aide, Magnus Eza disclosed this during an audience with the Chinese Ambassador to Nigeria, Yu Dunhai.

Odumegwu-Ojukwu, according to the statement, also expressed Nigeria's readiness to industrialise.

She therefore said Nigeria will collaborate with China to achieve economic diversification.

"Amb. Odumegwu-Ojukwu, therefore, appealed to China to remove trade tariffs for Nigeria as it had done for 33 other African countries," the Minister stated.

She stated that Nigeria has had a robust relationship with China spanning over five decades, and noted that the Renewed Hope Agenda of President Bola Ahmed Tinubu prioritises the diversification and strengthening of the nation's economy.

Amb. Odumegwu-Ojukwu highlighted the President's commitment to strategic partnership with China mentioning the establishment of electric vehicle plants, digital communication, renewable energy, all aspects of digital technology, and agriculture as major areas in Nigeria that needed Chinese support.

She acknowledged China's contribution to the development of road and rail infrastructure in Nigeria.

The Minister also stated that the country was taking tangible steps to improve its power sector and modernise the ports, emphasising that all these will enable investments.

The Minister further expressed Nigeria's resolve to expand cultural relations with China even as she pointed out that many Nigeria youth were inclined to learning Chinese Language.

"It's quite interesting that a large population of Nigerian youth is inching towards Chinese Language. A lot of Nigerian Universities are desirous to offer Chinese Language. Chinese had become the language of trade in the world.

"Nigeria-China will continue to relate not just bilaterally but multilaterally. We expect that we will

FG reaffirms efforts to tackle industrial challenges, retain investors

The Federal Government has reiterated its commitment to addressing industrial challenges, ensuring access to funding, and creating a more conducive business environment for manufacturers and small businesses.

Senator John Enoh, Minister of State for Industry, Trade and Investment, made this assertion during the inauguration of the Industrial Revolution Work Group in Abuja on Thursday.

Enoh highlighted the ongoing fiscal and monetary policy measures under President Bola Tinubu's administration aimed at sustaining industrial growth.

He revealed that the government had allocated substantial funds to key sectors, including $75 billion for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and another $75 billion for the manufacturing sector.

Furthermore, before the passage of the 2025 budget,

President Tinubu approved an increase in aggregate expenditure, providing N500 billion each for the Bank of Industry (BOI) and the Bank of Agriculture.

Enoh explained that these actions were deliberate steps to support industrial and agro-allied businesses, ensuring their survival amid ongoing economic challenges.

On monetary policies, Enoh acknowledged the difficulties posed by high interest rates but reaffirmed the government's commitment to maintaining single-digit interest rates through BOI-backed interventions.

Enoh also addressed concerns about businesses leaving Nigeria due to regulatory and infrastructure challenges, reassuring stakeholders that many industries still regard Nigeria as a key market.

He noted that the newly inaugurated Industrial Revolution Work Group,

FG reaffirms efforts to tackle industrial challenges, retain investors

The Federal Government has reaffirmed its commitment to addressing industrial challenges, ensuring access to funding, and creating a favourable business environment for manufacturers and small businesses.

Minister of State for Industry, Trade and Investment, Sen. John Enoh made this known during the inauguration of the Industrial Revolution Work Group in Abuja on Thursday.

Enoh highlighted ongoing fiscal and monetary policy efforts under President Bola Tinubu's administration to sustain industrial growth.

He mentioned that the government had allocated significant funds to key sectors, including 75 billion dollars for small and medium enterprises (SMEs) and another 75 billion dollars for the manufacturing sector.

Additionally, before the passage of the 2025 budget, Tinubu approved an increase in aggregate expenditure, providing N500 billion for the Bank of Industry (BOI) and N500 billion for the Bank of Agriculture.

These measures, he said, were deliberate efforts to support industry and agro-allied businesses, ensuring their survival amid economic challenges.

On monetary policies, Enoh acknowledged the challenges posed by high interest rates but affirmed the government's commitment to sustaining single-digit interest rates through BOI-backed interventions.

Enoh also addressed concerns regarding businesses leaving Nigeria due to regulatory and infrastructure challenges, reassuring stakeholders that many industries still view Nigeria as a key market.

He noted that the newly inaugurated Industrial Revolution Work Group, which includes representatives from key government agencies, would focus on addressing regulatory bottlenecks, power supply issues, and customs procedures.

The minister stressed that the government was focused not just on formulating policies but on their effective implementation to restore investor confidence, with the first meeting of the work group to take place shortly.

He emphasised the importance of quick wins and measurable results, acknowledging that Nigerians were tired of endless discussions without tangible outcomes.

The Director-General of the Manufacturers Association of Nigeria (MAN), Segun Ajayi-Kadir, expressed the private sector's commitment to collaborating with the government to revive more than 700 shut-down industries in the country.

He stressed the need for stronger collaboration between government agencies and the private sector, particularly in addressing constraints that have hindered industrial growth for decades.

Ajayi-Kadir also called attention to the unsustainable impact of rising interest rates on manufacturers, noting that the current rate of more than 30 per cent was detrimental to industrial growth.

He also commended the decision to freeze a proposed 15 per cent increase in port charges, which would have negatively impacted manufacturers and importers of raw materials.

Chris Oputa, Director-General of the Nigerian Association of Small-Scale Industrialists (NASSI), emphasised the need to prioritise local production to transform Nigeria's industrial base.

He warned that failure to build adequate local production capacity could lead to economic losses, especially with Nigeria's participation in the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA).

CBN retains MPR at 27.5%

The Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) on Thursday retained its benchmark interest rate known as the Policy Rate (MPR) at 27.5 per cent, following the rebased consumer price index (CPI).

The National Bureau of Statistics (NBS) on Tuesday rebased the CPI CPI reading, which revealed a sharp reduction in Nigeria's headline inflation rate to 24.5 per cent y/y in January 2025 (post-rebasing) compared with the pre-rebasing reading of 34.8 per cent y/y in December 2024.

This was announced by the CBN Governor, Yemi Cardoso, at the post-MPC press briefing on Thursday.

The decision reflects the committee's cautious approach to monetary policy,

DMO appoints Stanbic IBTC as new FG stockbrokers

By Seun Ibiyemi

The Debt Management Office (DMO) on Thursday unveiled Stanbic IBTC Stockbrokers Ltd. as the new stockbrokers of the Federal Government.

This is coming after the expiration of the tenure of CSL Stockbrokers Ltd., a subsidiary of First City Monument Bank (FCMB).

According to the Director-General of DMO, Patience Oniha, Stanbic is a comprehensive financial house with which the Federal Government has done business in other areas.

Oniha described the Stanbic brand as strong and respected with a wide reach.

"It is a name that is familiar to our target investors, and that marches what our needs are.

"Its reputation and diversification as a group qualify it for the appointment," Oniha said.

She said that the DMO issued securities on behalf of the Federal Government, and the appointment of a government stockbroker is done on behalf of the Federal Government.

"There are two reasons why the DMO, which the largest issuers of securities in the market, needs a stockbroker.

"The first reason is a compliance issue. We are required to have a stockbroker whose functions are clearly defined. Secondly, there is a strong commitment to deepening to capital market."

She said that there was the retail segment of the market that the DMO has been trying to develop; the savings bond and the sukuk.

"A major mandate for you is to ensure that we are able to attract more investors to the FGN securities, FGN savings bonds, as well as the sukuk," she said.

The Chief Executive Officer of Stanbic IBTC Stockbrokers Ltd., Bunmi Olarinoye expressed the firm's commitment to growing the retail segment of the market.

NDIC auctions Heritage Bank's assets, urges depositors to claim funds

By Austine Agbo Emmanuel, Kaduna

The Nigeria Deposit Insurance Corporation (NDIC) has successfully auctioned off the assets of the defunct Heritage Bank, including landed properties and chattels, as part of its statutory mandate under Section 62 (1)(d) of the NDIC Act, 2023. The proceeds from the sale will be used to reimburse depositors with balances exceeding the insured limit of N5 million, with further payments to be made as additional recoveries are secured.

NDIC Managing Director, Bello Hassan, disclosed this during the corporation's Special Day at the ongoing 46th Kaduna International Trade Fair. Represented by the Kano Zonal Office Comptroller, Ahmad Umar, Hassan reassured the public of NDIC's commitment to protecting depositors and maintaining financial stability.

He emphasised that depositors who have not yet received their payments should come forward with the necessary documentation to verify account ownership.

"NDIC has implemented a transparent and efficient process for depositors to claim their funds, which can be submitted through the corporation's official website, email, or social media platforms," he said.

Following the revocation of Heritage Bank's licence on 3rd June 2024, NDIC reimbursed depositors within four days using their Bank Verification Numbers (BVN). Those with alternate bank accounts have received up to the insured amount of N5 million per depositor. However, depositors without BVNs or those with Post No Debit (PND) instructions on their accounts are being contacted to complete verification.

Hassan reiterated that once all depositors are fully reimbursed, the corporation will commence payments to creditors of the defunct bank. He urged affected depositors to visit the nearest branch of the closed bank with proof of account ownership and valid identification to facilitate payment.

NDIC remains dedicated to safeguarding depositors' interests and ensuring a stable banking system, reaffirming its commitment to promoting financial inclusion and public confidence in Nigeria's financial sector.

CNG Vehicles: Delta signs MoU with NIPCO

Delta Government and NIPCO Gas Limited on Thursday signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) for the establishment of a Compressed Natural Gas (CNG) vehicle conversion centre in the state.

At a brief ceremony in Asaba, the Secretary to the State Government (SSG), Dr Kingsley Emu, the Commissioner for Transport, Onoriode Agofure, and the Attorney-General and Commissioner for Justice, Ekemejoro Ohwovoriole, signed on behalf of the state government. Sanjay Tarat signed on behalf of NIPCO Gas Limited.

The SSG, in his remarks, said it was a deliberate effort of Gov. Sheriff Oborewori to provide a place for residents of Asaba to convert their petrol — dependent vehicles to CNG-powered ones.

Emu charged the company to ensure that it made good use of the place provided for the take-off of the project and to maintain quality and standard in handling the project.

He said, "Gov. Oborewori takes seriously the issue of timeliness and quality," adding that the state would not hesitate to revoke the MoU if the company failed to perform accordingly. We have shown commitment by providing you with a 3,000 square meters facility in the heart of Asaba.

"The conversion to CNG is the way to go; the governor was among the very few governors who drove in Electric Vehicles and CNG vehicles. Yes, planning takes a while and here we are with this engagement.

"It shows that we want to get the fundamentals right before we start getting the vehicles. Without the CNG stations in our environment, we can't go anywhere. So, we would like to welcome you to Delta state. This ceremony is important to us and the name chosen is a brand and NIPCO is one, especially as it concerns CNG; one of the foremost in the country.

"Timelines are very critical to us. Please, endeavour to keep to timelines. I am sure you have heard about His Excellency's penchant for timelines and quality jobs on the social media space.

"We shall not hesitate to revoke this MoU on account of your inability to perform. We do know you can perform and your inability to perform, we have mitigated by providing the space; which is also what we owe you. Therefore, the ball is in your court," Emu said.

FG won't fix crude oil price — NUPRC

The Nigerian Upstream Petroleum Regulatory Commission (NUPRC) has reiterated that it will not resort to fixing crude oil prices, maintaining its commitment to international best practices and the willing-seller, willing-buyer model.

Speaking at a stakeholders' meeting in Abuja, Engr Gbenga Komolafe, the Commission Chief Executive, reaffirmed that the government would support the optimal functioning of the upstream sector without intervening in price-setting.

He assured that the Commission remained open to addressing operational issues raised by industry stakeholders, provided they align with national interest and contribute to sectoral growth.

The meeting, attended by the NUPRC, members of the Oil Producers Trade Section (OPTS), and the Independent Petroleum Producers Group (IPPG), focused on fine-tuning domestic crude supply obligations between producers and refiners.

The regular gathering aims to enhance Nigeria's energy security while ensuring that the upstream sector operates effectively within legal frameworks and accommodates the commercial interests of all stakeholders.

During discussions, OPTS and IPPG sought clarifications on various operational challenges, including the pre-allocation of crude oil to domestic refiners, pre-existing contracts within the domestic crude supply obligations, and pricing concerns.

Komolafe reassured stakeholders that the NUPRC remains committed to regulation without arbitrary actions that could deter investment or hinder sectoral growth.

He recalled that in January, the Commission had introduced a five-point agenda designed to increase oil production in 2025. This strategy includes implementing initiatives to boost production by one million barrels, enhancing transparency and accuracy in hydrocarbon measurement through improved metering and cargo regulations, digitalising upstream regulatory activities to ensure compliance, optimising unit costs per barrel to maximise revenue, and conducting licensing bid rounds to

Olusunle honoured as NMGS Fellow

...As society celebrates 64 years of existence

Research Director at the National Agency for Science and Engineering Infrastructure (NASENI), Engr. Dr. Samuel Olugbenga O. Olusunle, has been conferred with the prestigious Fellow of the Nigerian Mining and Geosciences Society (FNMGS). The Nigerian Mining and Geosciences Society (NMGS) is one of the oldest professional bodies in the country, with a legacy dating back to 1961.

The late Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, Nigeria's first President and a notable Pan-Africanist, was the first patron of the NMGS. The Society held its 60th Annual International Conference and Exhibition (AICE) in Abuja, which concluded with an Awards and Recognition Night on 19 February 2025 at Chida International Hotel.

The event celebrated individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the growth of the mining and geosciences profession and those whose work has had a direct impact on Nigeria's socio-economic development. Engr. Dr. Olusunle was among 43 distinguished members honoured with the Fellow category, the highest level of recognition within the Society.

The NMGS was initially founded as the Nigerian Mining, Geological and Metallurgical Society (NMGMS) before it was officially inaugurated in 1962 and later transformed into its current structure in 1977. The Society is dedicated to advancing the study and practice of mining, earth sciences, and metallurgy.

It also facilitates the acquisition and dissemination of scientific knowledge in these fields and upholds professional ethics. Additionally, NMGS is statutorily represented in the Council of Nigerian Mining Engineers and Geoscientists (COMEG), which was established by Decree No. 40 of 1990.

Reacting to the honour, Dr. Olusunle expressed gratitude and emphasised the synergy between NASENI and NMGS. He noted that NASENI operates an institute dedicated to solid minerals exploitation (SOMMEDI) and, under the leadership of

FG to ban 60,000 litre-capacity trucks from roads, March 1

The Nigerian Midstream and Downstream Petroleum Regulatory Authority (NMDPRA) has said trucks with capacity to carry over 60,000 litres of hydrocarbon products will not be allowed to load at depots as from March 1.

It announced that as from the fourth quarter of this year, no truck carrying more than 45,000 litres of petroleum products would be allowed to load from depots.

The agency's Executive Director for Distribution System, Storage and Retailing Infrastructure, Ogbugo Ukoha, announced this at a media briefing in Abuja.

SPDC calls for increased partnership to grow oil and gas

The Shell Petroleum Development Company of Nigeria Limited (SPDC) has called for continuous collaboration between professional associations in the oil and gas industry and government agencies to ensure the sector contributes more effectively to the socio-economic development of Nigeria.

Such collaboration could result in investments in research and development that will ensure technological innovations not only in the oil and gas industry but also in other sectors of the economy.

SPDC Exploration Manager Gogo Eneyok made the call in Abuja where the Nigerian Mining and Geosciences Society (NMGS) began its 60th Annual International Conference on February 16-21, with the theme "Transformation of the Mineral, Energy, Water and Construction Sectors through innovations."

He said, "SPDC has sustained its decades-old partnership with the NMGS, sponsoring conferences, providing internship opportunities for professionals and the academia and supporting research, especially through give investors time to adjust to the directive.

According to him, the investors, especially truck owners, need time to redesign their trucks and redirect funding.

The union leader listed the stakeholders that agreed on the decision at the meeting as the Nigerian Association of Road Transport Owners (NARTO), Independent Petroleum Marketers Association of Nigeria (IPMAN), Standards Organisation of Nigeria (SON), Major Energies Marketers Association of Nigeria (MEMAN), among others.

He said other stakeholders at the meeting included the Department of State Services (DSS), Federal Roads Maintenance Agency (FERMA), Federal Fire Service (FFS), Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC), Nigerian Association of Road Transport Owners (NARTO), Nigeria Union of Petroleum and Natural Gas Workers (NUPENG), MEMAN, Petroleum Products Retail Outlets owners Association of Nigeria (PETROAN), IPMAN, Depot and Petroleum Marketers Association of Nigeria (DAPMAN), SON," he said.

Ukoha said the Nigerian National Petroleum Company Limited (NNPCL) had not imported the

Air Peace to showcase enhanced connectivity at 2025 exhibition in Berlin

Air Peace has announced that it will showcase its growth trajectory and enhanced connectivity across Africa, the Middle East, Asia, and Europe at the 2025 International Travel Berlin (ITB Berlin) Exhibition.

Dr Ejike Ndiulo, the airline's Head of Corporate Communications, confirmed in a statement issued in Lagos that Air Peace would join over 10,000 exhibitors from around the world at the prestigious event.

He explained that the airline's exhibition would highlight its expanding route network and underscore its commitment to providing affordable, reliable, and safe air travel.

Nnenna Onyema, Executive Director of Air Peace, was quoted as saying: "We are thrilled to be part of ITB Berlin 2025, the global travel and tourism industry's largest and most influential event."

"Our participation reflects

Air Peace's commitment to building stronger international partnerships, driving tourism, and improving connectivity across continents.

"As we continue to expand our fleet and routes, ITB Berlin offers the ideal platform to share our vision and connect with international partners who share our goal of making travel more accessible to all."

Onyema also noted that visitors to the Air Peace stand would have the opportunity to engage with the airline's team and explore the wide range of services it offers.

The ITB Berlin, which stands for Internationale Tourismus-Börse Berlin, is the world's largest tourism trade fair and is held annually.

The 2025 exhibition is scheduled to take place from March 4 to March 6, and will feature exhibitors from hotels, tourist boards, tour operators, system providers, airlines, and car rental companies.

NAHCON secures 52,544 Hajj slots for states, reserves 16,263 for tour operators

National Hajj Commission of Nigeria (NAHCON) has secured 52,544 spaces for state pilgrims camps and reserved 16,263 slots for tour operators to enable Nigerian pilgrims perform 2025 Hajj rites in Saudi Arabia.

The Assistant Director, NAHCON Information and Publications Division, Hajia Fatima Usara disclosed this in her publication titled "NAHCON always in the Media: Understanding the Spotlight – With 2025 Hajj Update" in Abuja.

Usara said NAHCON, under the leadership of Prof. Abdullahi Usman, secured the spaces by paying upfront on behalf of states' pilgrims' boards and private tour operators to ensure that Nigerian pilgrims did not miss out.

"As a reminder, NAHCON had secured 52,544 spaces for State Pilgrims Camps.

"Under the new contract, the projected number of pilgrims is split between two service providers as follows

"Mashariq Dhahabiah will cater to 26,287 pilgrims, while Ekram Deif will accommodate 26,257 Nigerian pilgrims expected to complete their registration by a soon-to-be-confirmed date.

"Meanwhile, Rawaf Mina is expected to confirm the availability of 100 VIP tents," she said.

Usara said that Usman leveraged the lifeline given by the Saudi authorities to accommodate more Nigerian pilgrims that habitually make late remittances yet put pressure on NAHCON for Hajj slots.

She said that NAHCON reserved 16,263 spaces for tour operators to process after remittances.

"1,447 VIP slots will be processed through Ithraa Al Joud, while Rawaf Mina will supply 35 VIP camps for processing.

"This brings the total expected VIP spaces for the private sector to 1,482, pending pilgrim payments.

"For Tour Operator's Tent 'D', Rawaf Mina has reserved 14,413 spaces, which will be allocated after remittances. Ithraa Al Joud will provide an additional 1,850 accordingly," she said.

The NAHCON spokesperson urged journalists to uphold the principles of fairness and

SAHCO records unprecedented growth under Adenike Aboderin's leadership

Stories by Seun Ibiyemi

Skyway Aviation Handling Company (SAHCO) PLC has marked a year of outstanding growth and strategic expansion under the leadership of its Managing Director/CEO, Mrs. Adenike Aboderin.

Over the past year, the company has significantly improved its financial performance, strengthened key airline partnerships, and set new benchmarks for safety and efficiency in aviation ground handling.

SAHCO reported an impressive 74.8% increase in revenue for the financial year ending December 2024, reflecting a strong commitment to operational excellence and service delivery.

Under Mrs. Aboderin's stewardship, the company secured and renewed major airline contracts, including a five-year extension with British Airways and new agreements with South African Airways, Air Peace, Ibom Air, and Uganda Airlines.

The company also expanded its presence in the religious tourism sector by handling Hajj operations for Flynas and Umza Air.

Additionally, SAHCO played a key role in reviving the Nigeria-Italy route through a full handling contract with Neos Air.

Operational excellence has been a focal point, with the company earning multiple awards from British Airways for safety and punctuality.

SAHCO set a new industry record by completing the offloading of 37 pallets from an Ethiopian Airlines Boeing 777 cargo flight in just 37 minutes.

Safety and sustainability have remained at the forefront of SAHCO's operations, with the renewal of its IATA Safety Audit for Ground Operations (ISAGO) and RA3 certifications.

The company has also made substantial investments in eco-friendly ground support equipment to minimize its environmental footprint.

As SAHCO looks to the future, Mrs. Aboderin's leadership continues to drive innovation and expansion, solidifying the company's position as a leader in Africa's aviation ground handling sector.

FAAN to recertify Kano, Port Harcourt airports for global safety compliance

The Federal Airports Authority of Nigeria (FAAN) has announced that it is embarking on the recertification process for Kano and Port Harcourt airports.

This initiative aims to enhance safety and align the airports with international standards.

The Managing Director of FAAN, Mrs. Olubunmi Kuku, disclosed this during a tour of Murtala Muhammed International Airport (MMIA), Lagos, alongside FAAN Board Chairman, Mr. Abdullah Ganduje, during the week.

"She added that FAAN was embarking on Kano and Port Harcourt airports recertification," the report read in part.

According to Kuku, FAAN is prioritising security and infrastructure improvements across key airports, focusing on replacing outdated security equipment and introducing explosive detection devices.

Kuku highlighted that terminal rehabilitation projects have already commenced at Murtala Muhammed International Airport (MMIA), with further large-scale developments planned for Lagos and Abuja airports.

She also noted that FAAN is making accessibility improvements for passengers with disabilities.

On aviation safety, Kuku emphasised ongoing efforts to enhance runway security

Silent Killer: What you need to know about High Blood Pressure

By Oriola Ibiyemi

Hypertension is a major health concern in Nigeria, affecting millions. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), about one in three Nigerian adults suffers from high blood pressure. A 2018 study published in the Nigerian Journal of Cardiology found that 45% of Nigerians aged 30 and above are hypertensive, yet only one-third of them are aware of their condition. The 2019 Nigeria Non-Communicable Disease (NCD) Survey also highlighted that hypertension accounts for nearly 50% of stroke cases and is a leading cause of heart disease in the country. Commonly known as High Blood Pressure (BP), it is a serious cardiovascular disorder where the force of blood against the arteries remains persistently high. A blood pressure reading above 140/90 mmHg on multiple occasions is considered hypertensive. The heart, a muscular organ positioned in the mediastinum (the space between the lungs), pumps blood throughout the body. It is encased in a protective sac called the pericardium, which prevents friction and trauma. Normal blood pressure ranges between 100/60 mmHg and 140/90 mmHg. Any reading below 100/60 mmHg is classified as hypotension, while readings above 140/90 mmHg indicate hypertension. Blood pressure is measured using a sphygmomanometer, also known as a BP monitor. There are two main types: Digital BP Monitors. These are easy to use and display the exact reading automatically. Or Manual Mercury BP Monitors. These require a stethoscope to listen for blood flow sounds and are considered less user-friendly. Due to mercury pollution concerns, countries like Sweden, the Netherlands, and the Philippines have banned them. Classification of Hypertension

 1. Elevated BP: Systolic pressure of 120-129 mmHg and diastolic pressure below 80 mmHg.
 2. Stage 1 Hypertension: Systolic pressure of 130-139 mmHg or diastolic pressure of 80-89 mmHg.
 3. Stage 2 Hypertension: Blood pressure exceeding 140/90 mmHg.

Types and Causes of Hypertension
 1. Primary (Essential) Hypertension

This form of hypertension has no identifiable medical cause but is linked to risk factors such as:
 ·Ageing
 ·Genetics (more common among Black Africans)
 ·Obesity
 ·High sodium intake (common due to Nigerian diet rich in salt and processed foods)
 ·Alcohol and tobacco consumption
 ·Stress and sedentary lifestyle
 2. Secondary Hypertension
 This occurs due to underlying medical conditions such as:

 ·Kidney disease
 ·Pregnancy-induced hypertension
 ·Thyroid disorders
 ·Diabetes
 ·Overuse of NSAIDs (e.g., Diclofenac)
 Hypertension requires lifelong management. Poor compliance with treatment can lead to complications such as:
 ·Coronary artery disease
 ·Stroke (responsible for 1 in 5 deaths among Nigerian adults)
 ·Heart attack
 ·Kidney failure (high BP is a leading cause of kidney disease in Nigeria)
 ·Pregnancy complications
 ·Vision problems
 ·Vascular dementia
 Signs of Hypertension
 Hypertension is often called the “silent killer” because it may not present symptoms until severe complications arise. However, some warning signs include:
 ·Occipital headache (headache at the back or middle of the head)
 ·Elevated BP above 140/90mmHg
 ·Insomnia
 ·Fainting
 ·Chest pain
 ·Difficulty breathing

·Reduced urine output
 ·Weakness
 ·Impaired vision/speech
 ·Confusion ·Anxiety
 ·Dizziness ·Vomiting
 ·Nose bleed
 ·Heart palpitations.
 Management
 1. Lifestyle Changes
 ·Keep a healthy weight. Know your BMI (Body Mass Index) to assist with this.
 ·Eat a healthy diet. Eat full fruits, vegetables, whole grains, less salty foods, and low-fat dairy foods
 ·Cut down on salt and eat enough potassium containing foods instead e.g tomatoes, bananas, avocados, and potatoes, veggies, nuts
 ·Avoid fried foods and caffeine
 ·Exercise regularly.
 ·Do up to 150 minutes of aerobic exercises per week e.g. walking, jogging, skipping, biking ·Engage in resistance training such as lifting light weights.
 ·Limit alcohol intake, if possible, stop it entirely
 ·Speak to your physician to prescribe antihypertensive medications and be sure of the side effects before starting

·Reduce stress levels
 ·Stress relating to work, family, relationship may affect one’s BP reading
 ·Try yoga, journaling, and avoid stress triggers
 ·Eat dark chocolates
 ·They contain 60-70% of cocoa
 ·2 squares of dark chocolates daily may lower risk of heart disease because it aids in dealing with inflammation and high blood pressure.
 2. Medication Compliance
 ·Take prescribed antihypertensive medications consistently.
 ·Consult a doctor about potential side effects before starting any medication.
 ·Regularly monitor BP at home and visit a doctor for routine check-ups.
 How to Measure Blood Pressure Correctly
 Non-medical people do not know how to operate manual BP Monitor, so my focus will be on the digital one. Here are the steps to measure your blood pressure:
 1. Rest for 3-5 minutes before measurement.
 2. Sit in a chair, relax, and remove tight clothing.
 3. Wrap the cuff

Issues of the Moment

Osun LG control battle: How one judgement, many interpretations led to crisis

By Ismail Azeez, Osogbo

Osun State is currently embroiled in a crisis over local government control following the Appeal Court judgement delivered in Akure, Ondo State, on Monday regarding the sacked chairmen and councillors of Osun Council. The crisis erupted a week after the court ruled in favour of the All Progressives Congress (APC) and struck out the case brought by the People’s Democratic Party (PDP). Following the judgement, both APC and PDP have expressed conflicting interpretations. While the APC claims that the court reinstated the sacked elected council officials, the PDP and the state government argue that the ruling merely struck out the PDP’s case without reinstating anyone. The Attorney General of Osun State, Mr Jimi Bada, insisted that the court did not reinstate the sacked officials. He maintained that the judgement in a separate case filed by the Action Peoples Party (APP), which nullified the elections, remains valid and affects all parties involved. “I want to confirm to you straight away that the Court of Appeal in Akure did not go into the merit of the appeal lodged by the APC. Their finding was simply that there was no cause of action at the time the PDP filed the suit against OSSIEC at the Federal High Court. The Court of Appeal only struck out the originating summons filed by the PDP—nothing more,” he stated. He further clarified: “Anyone can interpret the judgement differently, but at no point did the court order that the sacked local government chairmen should be reinstated. The Court of Appeal did not make such a declaration.” However, APC National Secretary, Dr Ajibola Basiru, countered the Attorney General’s claims, describing them as an affront to the rule of law and a deliberate misrepresentation of the court’s ruling. “This deliberate misrepresentation of the court’s judgement is an affront to the rule of law and exposes the Osun State Government as an enabler of illegality. Ordinarily, a lawyer should know that a court judgement remains valid and binding unless set aside. The only option available to a dissatisfied party is to appeal to the Supreme Court. Neither Alimi nor the Osun State Government can sit in judgement over the ruling. This is elementary law,” Basiru asserted. He further stated: “The Court of Appeal considered all grounds of appeal in case CA/AK/270/2022 against the judgement of the Federal High Court (Justice N. Ayo-Emmanuel), which had nullified the local government elections and ordered the elected officials to vacate office. In allowing the appeal, all reliefs sought by the APC were granted, including setting aside the Federal High Court’s ruling and ordering the restoration of the sacked local government councils.” Governor Ademola Adeleke, in a press conference on Sunday, called on President Bola Tinubu to direct the National Security Adviser and the Attorney General of the Federation to personally verify the facts of the Appeal Court judgement. According to Governor Adeleke, “The court did not reinstate the sacked local government chairmen and councillors. A subsisting judgement already nullified the 2022 local government elections, and we will not allow any takeover of the local governments except through a judicial pronouncement or a democratic process.” The political turmoil in the state prompted the Nigeria

Labour Congress (NLC) and the Nigerian Union of Local Government Employees (NULGE) to withdraw their services for the safety of their members. In separate statements, NLC Chairman Christopher Arapasopo and NULGE State President Dr Nathaniel Kehinde Ogungbangbe directed the closure of all local government secretariat gates until further notice. The crisis escalated when attempts were made to enforce the Appeal Court judgement. On Monday, an attempt by the sacked officials to resume duty at the Osun Council Secretariats resulted in violence, leading to the deaths of the sacked chairman of Irewole Local Government, Hon. Aderemi Abass, an APC ward chairman, and four others. Several others sustained injuries in the clash. Governor Adeleke subsequently directed residents, including politicians, to stay away from local government secretariats to prevent further bloodshed and protect public property. The APC, while mourning its fallen members, initially directed its chairmen and councillors to stay off their respective council secretariats in respect for the deceased. However, on Wednesday, the party ordered them to resume duty and immediately freeze various council accounts. In a further development, the APC officially notified the Osun State Independent Electoral Commission (OSSIEC) of its withdrawal from the upcoming local government elections, citing that elected officers had already resumed office based on the Appeal Court judgement. Despite the ongoing controversy, OSSIEC has vowed to conduct free, fair, and credible local government elections on 22 February 2025. The commission also warned against impersonation, stating that it would not tolerate unauthorised individuals at polling stations. An announcement signed by OSSIEC’s Information Officer, Sadiat Isiaka, stated: “Only media organisations and observer teams duly authorised by the commission, bearing official tags and jackets provided by OSSIEC, will be allowed access to polling units, wards, local government areas, and the Central Collation Centre during the election scheduled for Saturday, 22nd February 2025. ## Ogun: Lawmakers hail sports infrastructure ahead of National Sports festival

By Omobolaji Adekunle, Abeokuta

Members of the Ogun State House of Assembly Committee on Youth and Sports have commended the State Government for its level of preparedness for the upcoming national sports festival through the procurement and upgrade of infrastructural facilities in MKO Abiola and Ijeja Stadia.

The House Committee members led by the Chairman, Hon. Lukmon Atobatele, gave the commendation, while being conducted round the facilities at the stadia by the Management team of the Sports Development Ministry, led by the State Commissioner, Mr. Wasiu Isiaka, during an on-the-spot assessment to examine the level of preparation towards the forthcoming National Sports Festival scheduled for May, 2025.

Atobatele in company of Honourables Folawewo Salami, Wasiu Ayodele, Oyedele Adebisi and Adegoke Adeyanju, stressed that the efforts put in place by the State Government was a reflection that the present administration was committed to maximizing the gains of the festival, particularly with its compliance with international standards in sporting infrastructure.

He admonished contractors to ensure the timely delivery of the ongoing projects at the stadia without compromising standard and safety for the sport athletes.

In his remarks, the Commissioner said the facilities put in place were an indication that the present remained committed to the advancement of sports in the State, particularly to attract more youth, thereby curbing social vices, adding that the State would leverage on the festival to further improve upon the sporting ecosystem of the State.

He added that all efforts were in top gear towards ensuring the speedy completion of the projects in all the facilities to be used during the festival.

The lawmakers were conducted round the MKO Abiola Stadium where they inspected the Tartan Track of eight lanes, football pitch, swimming pool, handball and tennis courts, while squash and handball courts, weight and Power lifting Arena and indoor hall were also inspected at the Ijeja Stadium.

FG approves new Universities for Iragbiji, Ekiti

President Bola Ahmed Tinubu on Thursday in Abuja assented to two separate bills establishing the Federal University of Agriculture and Development Studies, Iragbiji, Osun State and the Federal University of Technology and Environmental Sciences, Iyin Ekiti, Ekiti State.

President Tinubu said these specialised institutions will address the educational needs of the populace while driving research and innovation and contributing to the country's overall economic growth and development.

He said the institutions will serve as training grounds for developing agriculture, science and technology professionals and enhancing Nigeria's competitiveness in the global economy.

According to the National Universities Commission (NUC), Nigeria currently has 63 approved federal universities, 63 State universities, and 149 private universities.

On February 3, 2025, the President approved

LASG assures residents of continued financial aid

By Sodiq Adedokun

The Lagos State Government has reiterated its commitment to alleviating the financial challenges of its residents through the Sanwo-Olu Listen Financial Assistance Programme.

The Special Adviser to the Governor on Political, Legislative, and Civic Engagement, Dr. Afolabi Abiodun Tajudeen made this announcement during his appearance on Ojutaye, an indigenous magazine programme on Radio Lagos establishing the Federal University of Environment and Technology (FUET) in Ogoni town of Tai, Rivers State.

The President also consented to the Federal Government's takeover of a forfeited private university in Southern Kaduna and its transformation into a federal university.

107.5fm.

Dr. Afolabi explained that the Governor, Mr. Babajide Sanwo-Olu, has consistently launched policies and programmes designed to ease the financial burdens of residents, including those struggling with house rents, school fees, health challenges, and the needs of entrepreneurs.

Despite the growing influx of immigrants into Lagos and the pressure on the city's infrastructure, the Governor has remained dedicated to improving the lives of residents, especially during these challenging times when the nation's economy is undergoing major reforms.

"We recognise the challenges faced by residents, and that's why we continue to provide financial assistance. The programme is all about empowerment and ensuring every resident has the necessary resources to thrive," Dr. Afolabi said.

In addition to financial aid, the Special Adviser highlighted the Office's efforts in sensitising and engaging residents through advocacy programmes across all Senatorial Districts.

Osun LG crisis: PDP Govs back Adeleke, seek Tinubu, security agencies' support

By Ismail Azeez, Osogbo

The Peoples Democratic Party Governors' Forum (PDPGF) has expressed strong support for Osun State Governor, Senator Ademola Adeleke, over his stance on the controversial court judgement reinstating local government chairmen from the All Progressives Congress (APC).

Osun State has been engulfed in a political crisis following the Appeal Court ruling regarding the sacked chairmen and councillors elected during the 2022 local government elections. The unrest has led to the loss of lives and destruction of property.

In a statement issued in Abuja on Thursday, the Chairman of the Forum and Governor of Bauchi State, Senator Bala Abdulkadir Mohammed, called on security agencies to act swiftly in restoring law and order. He urged law enforcement agencies to prevent further escalation of violence and ensure the protection of lives and property.

"The PDPGF appeals to President Bola Tinubu, the Director General of the Department of State Services (DSS), the Inspector General of Police, and other security agencies to take immediate action. The situation must not be allowed to spiral out of control," the statement read.

Abiodun mourns Otegbola, describes late politician as selfless

Ogun State Governor, Prince Dapo Abiodun, has extended his condolences to the family of former lawmaker, Senator Ayodeji Otegbola, describing him as a distinguished politician and an exemplary community leader.

Otegbola, who represented Ogun West Senatorial District during the aborted Third Republic, passed away on Monday at the age of 91.

In a heartfelt condolence message, Governor Abiodun praised the late Asiwaju of Awori land for his dedication to community development and grassroots politics. He emphasised Otegbola's unwavering commitment to fostering unity and progress in Ogun State and beyond.

"Senator Ayo Otegbola exemplified the essence of a visionary leader. His tenure as Chairman of the Federal Housing Authority between 2002 and 2004 was marked by transformative policies that

The Forum condemned the resort to violence as a means of resolving political and legal disputes, stressing that political actors should be guided by the rule of law rather than self-help.

"We strongly condemn the political violence in Osun State, which has resulted in loss of lives and destruction of property. Governor Adeleke had earlier warned of an impending breakdown of law and order and called on relevant authorities to intervene. It is unfortunate that his concerns were not heeded," the statement added.

The PDPGF commended Adeleke for his proactive leadership in issuing timely warnings before the situation escalated. It also emphasised that political leadership should be focused on service to the people rather than fostering conflict.

"The protection of lives and property should not be subject to partisan or ideological divides. Every political leader has a duty to work towards the safety, security, and welfare of the people," the statement noted.

The Forum called for the immediate restoration of normalcy in Osun State and urged security agencies to identify and prosecute those responsible for the violence. It reiterated its commitment to ensuring peace, stability, and the rule of law in the state.

accelerated housing development across Nigeria, including the Federal Capital Territory," Abiodun stated.

He highlighted Otegbola's significant contributions to housing schemes such as Gwarinpa, noting that his efforts had left an indelible mark on Nigeria's urban development.

"His passion for community cohesion, coupled with his wealth of experience in estate surveying, shaped his impactful leadership. His legacy will continue to inspire generations," the governor added.

Abiodun expressed his deep sorrow over Otegbola's passing, noting that his contributions to Ogun State and Nigeria at large would remain memorable. He prayed for the peaceful repose of his soul and for strength for the bereaved family.

Seat arrangement: Drama engulfs N'Assembly as Sen. Natasha clashes with Akpabio again

Drama unfolded at the National Assembly yesterday when Senator Natasha Akpoti-Uduaghan clashed with Senate President Godswill Akpabio over a seating arrangement dispute.

Recall this is not the first time Senator Natasha has clashed with the leadership, and her refusal to back down has raised questions about the Senate's rules and procedures. Akpabio rebuffed Natasha last year while she attempted to speak without being invited to during his speech.

He remarked, "Senator Natasha, you cannot speak without being asked or invited to speak in the Senate. This is not a nightclub."

He added that it was his wife, whom he respects greatly, who brought the matter to his attention.

He later apologised over his nightclub comment.

But yesterday, the trouble started when Akpoti-Uduaghan's seat was reassigned following a reshuffle, prompted by opposition members moving to the majority wing.

However, Senator Natasha refused to relocate, sparking a heated confrontation with Akpabio.

According to the Chief Whip, Senator Tahir Monguno, the reassignment is justified under the Senate

Rules, and non-compliance could lead to penalties, including exclusion from Senate debates.

Akpabio upheld

Monguno's order and denied Senator Akpoti-Uduaghan the floor when she attempted

No casualties recorded in Cawthorne Channel 1 fire outbreak

The Nigerian National Petroleum Company (NNPC) Ltd has confirmed that no casualties were recorded in the fire outbreak that occurred on Wednesday, 19 February 2025.

According to reports, the fire broke out at approximately 14:10 hours on the dry crude storage barge BESTAF-5, spreading to other nearby barges.

In an official statement, NNPC Ltd's Chief Corporate Communications Officer,

Femi Soneye, expressed gratitude for the swift response of emergency teams and industry partners in containing the fire.

"Thanks to the rapid intervention of our emergency response teams and industry partners, the fire was successfully contained. The incident did not impact operations at the flow station," the statement read.

Gov Fubara urges partnership with new GOC to tackle crude oil theft, pipeline vandalism

Barth Ndubuwah, Port Harcourt

The Rivers State Governor, Sir Siminalayi Fubara, has called for a strategic partnership between the state government and the newly appointed General Officer Commanding (GOC) 6 Division of the Nigerian Army to tackle crude oil theft, pipeline vandalism, and other maritime crimes in the state.

Governor Fubara stressed that as the economic powerhouse of Nigeria, Rivers State places a significant burden on those responsible for protecting critical national infrastructure. He urged a collaborative approach to addressing security challenges to ensure the nation functions effectively.

The governor made these remarks while receiving the GOC 6 Division, Nigerian Army and Land Component Commander, Joint Task Force, South-South, Operation Delta Safe, Major-General Emmanuel Eric Emekah, who paid him a courtesy visit at Government House, Port Harcourt, on Wednesday.

Governor Fubara highlighted the crucial role of the 6 Division of the Nigerian Army, which is tasked with safeguarding national assets within its jurisdiction. However, he noted that such efforts would be futile without ensuring peace in the state.

"I am pleased that you are here to fulfil this important formality. It is a necessary step in fostering cooperation, but let me be clear-it does not imply any special relationship. It is simply the right thing to do, and I say this so that others may understand as well," the governor stated.

He expressed disappointment that the outgoing GOC had not once

OPINION

Is the judiciary complicit in the Osun State local government debacle?

By PROF MIKE OZEKHOM, SAN, CON, OFR, FCIArb, LL.D

INTRODUCTION

In a landmark decision in ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE FEDERATION V. ATTORNEY GENERAL OF ABIA STATE & ORS (2024) LPELR-62576(SC) last year, the Supreme Court gave the local government system full autonomy, warning governors to keep their political fingers off Local Government Councils (LGCs). The legal status of the LGCs in Osun State has however been the subject of intense political and judicial debate following the 2022 local government elections. The matter has seen multiple judicial determinations, culminating in two critical Federal High Court judgements; one obtained by the People's Democratic Party (PDP) and the other by the Action Peoples Party (APP). While both judgements invalidated the elections conducted by the Osun State Independent Electoral Commission (OSSIEC), the judgement secured by APP remains the extant, binding, and subsisting legal authority, as no superior court has set it aside.

Distortion of the essence of the judgments

In recent times, misinterpretations and misinformation have sought to distort the legal position, with some claiming that a recent Court of Appeal judgement reinstated the sacked local government officials. However, a critical examination of the Court of Appeal's latest decision shows that it merely struck out the PDP's appeal on the ground that no cause of action had arisen at the time of its filing. The position of the law in this regard is that when judgements are not to the substance of a case, they do not change the rights and liabilities of parties. See the case of IGBUNBOR V. AFOLABI(2001) FWLR (Pt. 59) 1284 at 165. Importantly, the Court of Appeal did not nullify or overturn the subsisting Federal High Court judgement granted in favour of APP, which therefore remains the authoritative and binding authority affecting the rights of the parties.

It is therefore meet that we clarify the foggy situation by analyzing the relevant judgements, applicable laws, and legal principles that govern the status of the 2022 Osun local government elections. This analysis will demonstrate that the local government councils were legally dissolved and that no subsequent judicial pronouncement had restored them. It will also demonstrate that the latest foiled invasion of many LGCs across Osun State by some APC persons is unconstitutional, illegal and amounted to self-help.

The 2022 Osun Local Government Elections Hallmarked Legal Challenges

The dispute over the Osun local government elections actually commenced in 2022, following the conduct of the elections by OSSIEC. The elections were challenged in court on the basis that OSSIEC had failed to comply with the mandatory provisions of the Electoral Act, 2022, specifically sections 28, 29, 32, 98, and 150 thereof.

The People's Democratic Party (PDP) and the Action Peoples Party (APP) had separately instituted legal actions at the Federal High Court, seeking to have the elections nullified. The basis of these suits was OSSIEC's alleged non-compliance with statutory provisions and constitutional violations.

The PDP Suit In Brief

In the case of PDP, it was alleged that OSSIEC was planning to conduct local government election in Osun

State in violation of the provisions of the Electoral Act, 2022, specifically sections 28, 29, 30 and 150 thereof. PDP also called on the Federal High Court to apply the decision of the Supreme Court in OSSIEC & ANOR V. ACTION CONGRESS & ORS (2010) LLJR-SC (delivered in 2010), to the effect that any notice of a local government election which is not in compliance with the Electoral Act is null and void. The law in existence as at the time of filing the said suit was the OSSIEC Law, 2015 (as amended).

While the suit was pending, the Osun State House of Assembly repealed the existing 2015 amended OSSIEC Law, and enacted the new OSSIEC Law, 2022, which prescribed 360 days' notice for election, same as contained in the Electoral Act, 2022. OSSIEC then, during the pendency of the action, published a notice of election prescribing only 60 days as against the 360 days specified by the OSSIEC Law and the Electoral Act.

PDP, then, by an order of court, amended its processes to bring in the new development. OSSIEC still went ahead with the conduct of the election and the All Progressives Congress (APC) participated despite the pendency of the suit at the Federal High Court. It was after the election that the APC and some of its candidates brought a joinder application to the suit in a representative capacity, for all its candidates who reportedly participated at the election. The Federal High Court granted their application for joinder and the whole court processes were amended to reflect all the parties and issues. On 25th November, 2022, the Federal High Court delivered a judgment in the suit, nullifying the election and consequentially sacking all the purported elected officials.

Summary Of The APP Suit

The APP's suit was similar to the PDP suit in all respects; the only difference being that the APP's suit was filed after the enactment of the OSSIEC Law 2022 and after the Continue reading on Habeeb Adunni Olawunmi Okikiola popularly known as Portable arraigned at the magistrate court in Ifo, Ogun state.

Court grants Portable N2m bail, adjourns to March 5

...I'm mentally stable – Portable tells Court

By Omobolaji Adekunle, Abeokuta

Nigerian singer, Habeeb Okikiola, popularly known as Portable, has been granted bail by the Isabo Magistrate Court in Abeokuta following his arraignment on charges of assault and obstruction of government officials.

He admitted that he is not insane.

Portable made the confession before Magistrate O.L Oke at the Magistrate Court sitting in Isabo Abeokuta, Ogun state on Thursday.

Portable arrived at the court in the morning and subsequently arraigned on five count-charge, bordering on assault, conspiracy, illegal possession of firearm, amongst others.

The zazo crooner however pleaded not guilty of the charges.

The defendant's counsel, Oluwatoyin Omomeyin Ayodele however pleaded before Justice Oke that portable be granted bail, pledging that the singer will desist from unlawful acts.

Ayodele argued before the court that Portable remains innocent until the court proves otherwise.

Her words "My Lord, I pray that you exercise patience on Habeeb Olalomi by granting him bail. This bail is for him to properly stand his trial.

"Okikiola is still innocent until the court proves otherwise. I promise that he will appear before his trial. My Lord, I promise that he will not miss any court appearance.

Responding to the prayer, Justice Oke said that the bail will be granted on conditions

I-G urges newly promoted officers to uphold ethics, professionalism

The Inspector-General of Police (I-G), Kayode Egbetokun, has called on newly promoted senior officers to uphold ethical conduct and professionalism in their service to the nation.

He made the statement during the decoration ceremony of the officers on Thursday in Abuja.

At the event, three Assistant Inspectors-General of Police (AIGs) and 16 Commissioners of Police (CPs) were formally decorated. Egbetokun emphasised that the ceremony highlighted the police leadership's commitment to personnel welfare and career progression.

"You are expected to lead with professionalism and ethical values because your decisions will shape the future of our policing efforts and impact countless lives. The challenges before us are vast, ranging from crime trends to community relations, making your leadership crucial at this moment," he said.

He encouraged the officers to embrace innovation and collaboration both within the force and with community partners to ensure a safer environment for all. He further stressed that the promotion process was based on merit, requiring the officers to demonstrate higher levels of responsibility and leadership in their new roles.

"Promotion is not just about rank elevation; it comes with greater responsibility, service, and leadership expectations," Egbetokun stated. He urged the officers to uphold justice and be a source of hope to all citizens.

He reiterated that the promotion process is designed to motivate officers, fostering a culture of professionalism and dedication within the police force.

"Our merit-based promotion system ensures that excellence is recognised and encourages others to strive for distinction," he added.

Egbetokun also reminded the officers of the need to uphold the rule of law and maintain transparency, integrity, and accountability in their service to the country.

Army Chief vows sustained offensive against bandits in Katsina

The Chief of Army Staff (COAS), Lt.-Gen. Olufemi Oluyede, has reaffirmed the military's commitment to intensifying operations against bandits in Katsina State.

He made the statement during an operational visit to the 17 Brigade of the Nigerian Army in Natsinta, Katsina, on Wednesday.

Received by the 17 Brigade Commander, Brig.-Gen. Babatunde Omopariola, Oluyede explained that his visit aimed to assess the brigade's operational activities, identify challenges, and implement solutions to enhance their effectiveness in combating insecurity.

"I am here to evaluate the operations of the 17 Brigade, address any challenges, and ensure that they are fully equipped to carry out their assigned duties effectively," he said.

He commended the troops for their achievements in the fight against banditry and urged them to intensify their efforts to eliminate criminal elements from the region.

"You will agree with me that the Brigade has been performing commendably. I have come to encourage them to redouble their efforts so we can completely rid the state of bandits and ensure a safer environment for

Man, 34, seeks protection in Canada after witnessing brutal crimes and facing death threats

Olabisi Olawale Toluwani, a Nigerian citizen from Oyo State, seeking refugee protection from the Canadian government because my life is in danger. If I am sent back to Nigeria, I will be at great risk due to my role as a witness to a violent crime, where I possess clear evidence against the perpetrators.

I have always tried to be a law-abiding citizen, believing in justice and the importance of reporting crimes. However, my experience has shown me that in Nigeria, those responsible for upholding the law are often working against it. I reported a criminal incident to the authorities, but soon after, I realized that the criminals knew my every move. The only logical explanation is that my information was leaked by the very officials I had trusted.

Nigeria is widely known to be struggling with severe security challenges, including Boko Haram terrorism, banditry, and kidnapping. However, in the urban area where I lived at 20 Seaside Estate, Badore, Ajah, Lagos. The primary threats were armed robbery and kidnapping. The situation worsened after the #EndSARS protest in 2020, which exposed deep flaws in Nigeria's security system and allowed criminals to operate with even greater confidence.

Starting in 2020, armed robbers frequently invaded my area in Ajah, Lagos, attacking residents, looting properties, and kidnapping people for ransom. Police would arrive only after the crimes had already taken place, and even when victims paid the ransom, the kidnapers often still killed them.

On July 6, 2021, a group of criminals attacked my compound and robbed my neighbor, Mr. Seyi. They looted his belongings, then killed him after raping his wife and 16-year-old daughter. Despite the brutality of the crime, the case went nowhere, no one trusted the police to take action.

Earlier, on March 12, 2021, my family and I were also victims of an armed robbery. The attackers stole our

General Hospital staff fear for their lives after exposing organ trafficking ring

A senior doctor at a general hospital in Nigeria is at the center of a shocking scandal involving an alleged underground organ trafficking ring, according to two whistleblowers who now fear for their lives. The whistleblowers, Bello Nasiru and Sanni Oluwayemisi, both dedicated staff members at the hospital, claim to have uncovered evidence of a gruesome operation targeting accident victims with no identified relatives.

Bello Nasiru and Sanni

Oluwayemisi, who have worked at the hospital for years, say they stumbled upon a hidden storage room filled with surgically extracted organs preserved in jars. The victims, often brought in by Good Samaritans, were reportedly declared dead under suspicious circumstances, with their bodies never claimed or investigated further. The organs, the whistleblowers allege, were being sold to high-profile clients, government officials, and international black-market dealers.

However, their decision to expose the operation has put them in grave danger. After Bello Nasiru confided in a former colleague, he was brutally murdered on Saturday, December 11, 2024, at 10:30 PM. His mutilated body was dumped in a gutter as a warning to others. The incident was discovered on October 13, 2024.

Since then, Sanni Oluwayemisi and her husband, Sanni Olanrewaju, have been relentlessly hunted, forcing them to flee their home with their children on November 12, 2024. Their once peaceful residence

Military raid on Bama: 14 sect members killed, man runs for dear life

Following a series of fresh attacks by Boko Haram members in Maiduguri in recent weeks, the security operatives launched a massive attack on Bama and its environs killing several Boko Haram members in the process.

Bama in Maiduguri is known to be the haven of the dreaded Boko Haram group since its inception years ago.

According to reports, the continued massive hunt by the security operatives yielded positive returns as the activities of the sect's members is said to have declined significantly in recent years.

The security operatives attributed the success of its troops in the fight against the sect to the detailed information being regularly supplied by some patriotic indigenes and the cooperation of well meaning Nigerians.

The security operatives also declared full support for one Ogunba Adedayo Segun who was said to have lost everything to the dreaded sect members.

Ogunba Adedayo Segun is one of the cooperative and reliable information gatherer and supplier whose valuable and timely information has helped the operations of the security operatives a great deal in achieving victory in the war, according to the source, who added that the security outfit promised to win the war against the sect outrightly as a reward for the 55-year-old.

Ogunba Adedayo Segun's property was callously destroyed when the sect members discovered that the reason they were rapidly losing the war members was due largely to the information being supplied by him. Ogunba Adedayo Segun and family have suffered great emotional and physical abuse as a result.

Speaking to our reporter in a lengthy telephone conversation, the prominent businessman and philanthropist disclosed how he became very successful at

That false comparison between Governors Abiodun and Makinde

By Funmi Branco

If you are not familiar with Ogun State and its governance under Prince Dapo Abiodun, chances are that you can take Olujide Wilanpa's acerbic piece, A Tale Of Two Governors, published in the February 18, 2025 edition of an online platform, Newscoven, at face value. In that boleka piece, author Wilanpa, assuming that this is his real name, sets out to condemn and demonise the Ogun State governor, Prince Dapo Abiodun, and his administration and ingratiate himself to the governor of Oyo State, Mr Seyi Makinde. To be sure, if all that Wilanpa set out to do was to eulogise Governor Makinde, there would have been nothing wrong with that. He has the right to believe either that the Oyo governor is the best in the South-West or indeed the entire country. It would be insulting, given the monumental achievements that have trailed his occupancy of the Oke Mosan Government House in the last five years, to think that the Ogun State helmsman is, or can be, diminished by such statements. However, while pretending to write about Makinde, Wilanpa's real aim is to put down the Ogun governor using blatant falsehood, false equivalences, and innuendo. This is an open challenge: let anyone, ANYONE at all, prove through statistical evidence that Ogun is behind any state in Nigeria except Lagos, the country's economic capital. Use submissions by the statistical agencies, local or international, to prove that Ogun State under Abiodun is an economically or even infrastructurally backward state. There is a reason the Gateway State is Nigeria's top investment destination after Lagos. Ogun under Abiodun is one of the few states that can pay salaries without federal allocation. The IGR has more than tripled under him.

With unimpeachable evidence, I show below that "A Tale Of Two Governors" is just another "tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." In that ridiculously uninformed and patently cancerous piece, the author submits as follows: "A drive on that arterial road always showed that the Oyo State stretch of the road is well-policed by security agencies and Amotekun Corps, while the Ogun State stretch is not. You can draw your conclusions or ask those who ply Lagos-Ibadan express where they feel safer." Ah! How people ridicule themselves through sheer buffoonery! The axis that Mr Wilanpa dismisses in his haste to demonise Abiodun just saved the South-West geopolitical zone from terrorist attacks! Just last Saturday, the Ogun State Commissioner of Police, Lanre Ogunlowo, intercepted a group of youths numbering 20 and possessing dangerous weapons during his routine weekend patrol along the Eledumare, Bamboo, Fidiwo, Foursquare, Alapako, and the Onigari axis on the Ogun-Oyo border. The weapons recovered from the suspects included "daggers, knives, cutlasses and objects suspected to be charms, among others." If the Ogun axis of the Lagos/Oyo section of the Lagos-Ibadan expressway is not well policed, how then was this potentially life and civilization-saving operation made possible?

It is indeed a tragedy that Wilanpa can claim that Ogun State, a state described by no less a personality than the Inspector General of Police as one of the safest and most peaceful states in the country, is toying with security. Only last month, the Abiodun government recruited 690 Amotekun personnel, even as the governor gave approval for the recruitment of an additional 1000, declaring that the state is a no-go- area for criminals. This was during the passing out parade ceremony of the 690 trainees, Batch D of the Corps held at the Gateway International Stadium, Sagamu. Hear him on the occasion: "We will continue to strengthen the Ogun State Security Network Agency(Amotekun Corps) to ensure that you have the tools and Infrastructure required to perform your duties effectively and diligently. I am

POETRY COLUMN

Libation

by Blessing Omeiza Ojo

To ride tandem on a world built on revolution, our ancestors must first unlimber in their graves, & our gods must decline red things, like blood—that of my brothers, of the innocent birds, of lambs—like palm fluid. Listen, there's a joy outside from the embrace of water. Here, bodies unclutter into a home to welcome a stranger. & It's all pretense to say it's festive when we know the fields are not white for harvest. I will see through now, dark as my skin into the future, awake. The night would meet us peering into space for the spirits who demand we hand over the man who once berated our rituals in his poem. However, our land will not know the thickness of his gore. In this era of newness, libation is driving droplets of water into dust, the deities—all popping.

TRUE LIFE STORY

Rising above: My story of overcoming abuse

My life has often been filled with pain. There are times when I feel I don't belong, and times when I think life and I aren't friends. Sometimes I believe the world would be better off without me and that I'd be happier with angels instead. People have mocked me, saying they never truly loved me and only used me.

If I were gone, perhaps the hurt and abuse I suffered wouldn't have happened. But I don't wish for death; there's much about me that others don't know.

I've experienced sexual abuse several times in my life, never by the same person. Yet, I don't blame all men or hate them. I believe people can change, and I embrace them.

I have a forgiving heart, no matter how deeply I've been hurt. I've never encountered a man who treated me well or respected me; they've all mistreated me in one way or another.

Sharing my story isn't about my past relationships; it's about showing my strength. I became a parent at nineteen, but the father of my child disappeared. When my son was six months old, I returned to university.

Unfortunately, my father fell ill and had to stop working, and my bursary didn't cover all my fees, so I had to drop out. I had no support to help with my financial struggles.

People judged me harshly and spread false stories about me. I understand poverty and the pain of going to bed hungry. What hurts most is trying to help my family escape poverty, only to face judgment from relatives.

I may come from a wealthy family, but their selfishness and judgmental attitudes have made life hard for us.

I believe that my past does not define my future. I am hopeful for my family's future. Just because I am a victim of abuse doesn't mean I did anything to deserve it; the perpetrators chose to hurt me.

I've also been a victim of cyberbullying, but I refuse to let that bring me down. Instead, those experiences have pushed me to stand up for myself.

Suicide has crossed my mind many times, but I know there are people who care about me, and I want to live for them. My son inspires me to work hard for our future, and I believe every situation has an end.

I am not a victim; I am living proof that "what doesn't kill you makes you stronger." This is who I am.
